

OVERTONES: EGE JOURNAL OF ENGLISH STUDIES

CALL FOR PAPERS

Annual deadline: September 15

Overtones: Ege Journal of English Studies welcomes research articles and reviews related to all subjects in the field of English Language and Literature. The journal is an international, double-blind peer reviewed journal which offers open access to all. The scope of the journal covers theoretical, critical and thematic contexts regarding English Studies, including English linguistics, translation studies, cultural studies and all other related subjects. Authors are to submit complete, original and full length articles (4000-8000 words) and reviews (1000-2000 words) which have not been published or under evaluation elsewhere. All articles will be scanned for plagiarism via Ithenticate. Any article with a resemblance percentage above 5 (except quotations) in Ithenticate will be rejected directly. If any other instances of plagiarism are found during any of the stages of publication (reviewer evaluation, editorial reading and typesetting) the article will be rejected and the author will be notified immediately. Citation manipulated articles, or in other words, articles that are submitted to increase the citation number of a specific author will be rejected directly.

Please send submissions as word file attachments to overtonesege@gmail.com

OVERTONES: EGE JOURNAL OF ENGLISH STUDIES PROCEDURE

- * Articles and reviews should follow MLA parenthetical citation format and the journal's paper submission template.
- * All articles are assigned manuscript numbers within 48 hours of submission once they are approved by the editor who checks if the articles follow the journal's guidelines.
- * All articles are listed after the annual deadline (September 15) and sent to double blind evaluation within two weeks (October 1).
- * The evaluation process of the reviewers is two months (December 15).
- * Accepted articles are sent back to the authors for necessary corrections. The authors then have two weeks to work on their manuscripts according to reviewers' suggestions (December 30) and submit their revised articles along with a short bio (max. 100 words) an abstract (max. 150 words) and 8 keywords.
- * If one of the reviewers rejects the article, the author is advised to work on the article and send it once again to be evaluated for the next issue during the forthcoming year. Articles accepted by both reviewers are to be published in the current volume of the journal.
